ProTranslating's Maria Cristina de la Vega becomes a member of AIIC

OCT. 27, 2010

ProTranslating, Inc., today announced that Maria Cristina de la Vega, president, has earned membership into the International Association of Conference Interpreters (AIIC).

AIIC is the only worldwide association for conference interpreters. It brings together 2,800 professional conference interpreters in more than 250 cities and 90 countries.

To be considered, applicants must work with already qualified members so that performance is judged by interpreters holding the appropriate language rankings aspired to by the candidate.

In addition to the peer review, the candidate must have logged a significant amount of interpreting conference hours and adhere to the ethical guidelines of the association.

After working with several interpreters in the North American region to evaluate her over the course of several months, Ms. de la Vega has been granted membership with the top classification for her language combination, English:A, Spanish: A.

ProTranslating provides language solutions to corporations, law firms and individuals worldwide. Headquartered in Coral Gables with more than 35 years of experience, it boasts one of the largest teams of in-house linguists in the industry.
